

Evangelos Salachas is a Senior Consultant in the Strategy and Operations - Financial Services Consulting practice of Deloitte. Since joining Deloitte, Evangelos has been involved in several projects in the banking sector, with a particular focus on the analysis of credit risk. During his engagement, Evangelos had participated in various projects for financial institutions in Greece, such as IFRS 9 implementation, Data Governance and BCBS #239. His specialization lies in the fields of banking credit risk, valuation and modeling and regulatory compliance.

Education:

- Ph.D. in Banking and Finance, Athens University of Economics and Business
- M.Sc. in Banking and Financial Management, University of Piraeus
- B.Sc. Business Administration, Athens University of Applied Sciences

Evangelos serves also as a post-doctoral fellow and adjunct professor at Athens University of Economics and Business, where he teaches Econometrics and Financial Management and conducts research in the areas of Monetary policy, Financial Markets and Banking. He was the instructor in SPSS and EVIEWS workshops at full time MBA AUEB students, during the spring semester of 2014-2015.